DRAINAGE DITCH IS STARTED

Ditch Six Miles Will Run From Wilmot Road in Bristol to Hickory Bridge

WILL COST OVER $18,000

Years ago Bristol farmers dreamed of building a drainage ditch to reclaim much of the swamp land in that town. The dream is going to be a reality as on next Monday morning the work of constructing the "Dutch Gap" drainage ditch will be started and it is expected that the work will be completed before the end of the present year. There is no contest over the construction of the drainage ditch now and it is expected that the work will be carried out without even a court action. Co-operation among the farmers in the town has made possible the peaceable arrangement for the big improvement. Benefits and damages have been assessed in connection with the big plan and there has been no appeal from the amounts named by the commission. The award of benefits and damages has not as yet been confirmed by any court but it is declared that there is only a matter of form and that there is not a single property owner who will seek to hold up the work.

While the drainage ditch will not drain as many acres of land as was provided for in the original plan for it will reclaim for cultivation hundreds of acres of land in the one township.

The contract for the construction of the ditch and the laterals has been awarded to S. A. Knoeblock of Niles, Mich. The main ditch will be six miles in length and the cost of it is placed at $14,601.17. Other connecting ditches will be built at a cost of $4,000. It is said that the actual number of acres of swamp lands to be drained by the ditch 2400, but there will be a vast number of acres in the town of Bristol which will be greatly benefitted. It is expected that the ditch will be completed by the latter part of September. It will have an outlet at the Hickory bridge in Lake county but no provision is made for the drainage of any lands in Lake county. The arrangement for the outlet was made with the owners of the property near the Hickory bridge and it is declared to be entirely satisfactory to all concerned.

It is possible that in future years there will be other extensions for new drainage systems to drain into the main ditch, but none of these are planned for the present year. The "Dutch Gap" is almost tradition in the town of Bristol. More than twenty years ago the plan for the ditch was brought to light. Up to the time of his death George Shields, for many years prominent in the town, was the principle booster for the plan. He died several years ago and then the work was taken up by other farmers who pushed the plan to the successful conclusion.

When Plants Do Not Thrive. "Pury a small piece of beefsteak close to the roots, or lay a piece of raw potato on the surface of the ground near the roots. If there are worms around the roots, they will come to the meat or potato to eat, and may be easily removed.

All Dependent on Will. Nothing is impossible; there are ways which lead to everything; and we had sufficient will to do what we have sufficient means. —La Rochefoucauld.

WORKING GIRLS' HOME AT WAUKEGAN IS SOLD

On Saturday it became known that the Working Girls' Home at the corner of Jackson and Water streets, Waukegan, built by the Volunteers of America and dedicated to Hannah Welch, whose bequest of $4,500 made possible the erection of the house, had passed into the hands of a Chicago real estate firm. The records show that on the 27th of April a deed was recorded in Waukegan transferring title to the property to Edward G. Moninger and wife Lavena C. Moninger. The consideration is given at $10.

Captain Cook was asked for an explanation. "We could not meet the expenses of the home."

The home was built in sympathy of the hard working girls of Waukegan. The home was built to provide shelter for the poor girl who earns but a small stipend a week. I want to tell the people of Waukegan that the only sympathy will ever get will be the 'sympathy' she will find in the dictionary. I want to give you a list of the people of Waukegan who assisted in founding the Working Girls' Home.

This is the complete list: Hannah Welch, $4,500; George Reed Lyon, $150; Attorney W. C. Upton, $150; Security bank, $100; John W. Barwell, $10; J. F. Bidinger, $5; Geo. N. Goodnow, $10; Mrs. Cheever, $5.

"Oh, yes, I forgot to tell you that one Waukegan woman, a woman living on Jackson street, gave us a half dozen pillow slips. Now you have the complete list of donations from Waukegan. The balance, $5,000 was paid out of the treasury of the Volunteers of America. The home is one of the most beautiful in Waukegan, and Mr. Moninger admits that he is anxious to sell the place for a sanitarium."

NAMES CHOICES FOR BOARD OF REVIEW

County Judge Perry L. Persons has made his appointments to the board of review, naming Harvey C. Coulson of Waukegan and Ney Lamb of Gurnee as the men to serve with J. F. King. The latter, by virtue of his office as chairman of the board of supervisors is ex-officio member of the board of review and its chairman.

The men must meet the first Monday in June and will be in session until the first week in September. It is usually the case that the board meets early in June and is almost continuously busy during the entire summer.

There is plenty to do with all the objections to the various tax amounts filed with the board. The scaling down process is rather laborious and requires much investigation and weighing of facts. For this, the board's members are given a per diem of $5.

According to the custom, one of the appointees must be a democrat and one a republican. Coulson's politics are of the former and Lamb's of the latter variety.

Fish Hatchery to Send out Spawns

The Illinois State Fish Hatchery located at Spring Grove, received a visit from the Illinois state game and fish commissioner, C. B. Whitford, last Friday. Mr. Whitford reported that there was no other fish hatchery in the state that shows the success attained as the one in Spring Grove. It has been proven that the water of this hatchery is remarkably well adapted to the culture of fish. The water used there is mostly spring water and it is in this kind of water that the fish thrive the best.

At the present time there are 30,000,000 wall eyed pike spawn that are hatching in the glass jars. These will be ready for distribution in about two weeks. They will be put in the principal waters in northern Illinois where the supply of these fish has become run down during the last few years. It is quite a sight to see such a large number of fish just as they are hatching and Mr. Whitford has invited those who are interested to visit the Spring Grove hatchery at this time.

Preventive of Tarnish.

To keep brass beds and other kinds of brass work from tarnishing, and also to avoid frequent polishing, the brass should be lacquered with gum shellac dissolved in alcohol. The lacquer should be applied with a small paint brush. Ten cents worth of it will lacquer a bedstead.

Spirit of Mischief.

"You should never be cross." "I can't help it sometimes," replied the small boy. "I like to start an argument between father and mother as to which of them I take after."

SHORT ITEMS FROM OUR EXCHANGES

Clippings Taken From Articles Concerning Many Towns and People of Interest

WHAT OTHERS HAVE TO SAY

In the recorder's office is registered a transaction of much interest in Lake county, the Mineola hotel having been taken back by its former owner, Ed Howard. The latter sold the establishment two years ago to E. M. Bertha for the sum of $65,000 buying it back for $35,000.

The business men of Richmond have organized what is to be known as the Richmond Business Men's association. The object of the association is to advance business interests, encourage improvements, harmonize and retain trade, foster a friendly feeling between the members, encourage improvements in business methods, abate trade abuses and injuries practiced, to correct evils attending the extension of credit and to establish a credit rating system to customers. Chas. Kruse is president of the association and W. H. O'Brien secretary.

Directors of the Elgin National Watch company declared their usual quarterly dividends of two per cent last week.

As the result of the recent milk war Hebron milk producers will build a co-operative factory at that place. The co-operative will be capitalized for $12,000.

The United States civil service commission announced an examination for the county of Kenosha to be held in Kenosha on May 27, to fill the position of rural carrier at Bristol.

James G. Nichols and Wm. Aspinall farmers near the Illinois state line had 100 head of cattle slaughtered after they had reacted from the tuberculin test. All but fifteen were sold for beef by the authorities.

C. J. Lawrence of Rockton, captured a wolf cub and killed seven others along the Pecatonica river the forepart of last week. The animals were of the gray timber variety.

United action on the part of the towns of Somers and Pleasant Prairie was practically agreed upon at a big booster road meeting held at the Elks club last Wednesday evening. This united action is primarily for the completion of the Sheridan road through Kenosha county.

The importance of the muskrat trapping industry in Wisconsin, especially about Lake Winnebago, was indicated recently at a hearing for special licenses at Oshkosh. Licenses were issued to 95 farmers to trap immediately, some of whom have as many as 3,000 traps. Many individuals reported individual sales of $5,000 a year.

Little Mary's Suggestion.

Her father took Mary out for a walk one day in the country. They passed a pasture where some bulls were inclosed. The bulls were bellowing, and Mary's father attempted an imitation of it, to the great amusement of Mary, who finally said, after many encores had been rendered for her benefit, "Daddy, wouldn't it be a good joke if we were to hide behind a tree, and when people came, by you would undo your voice and frighten them."

When Nails Loosen.

Deafness sends this hint: As soon as a picture nail driven in a wall gets loose and the plaster begins to break around it, it can be made solid and firm by the following process. Saturate a bit of wadding with thick glue, wrap as much as possible around the nail and reinsert the latter in the hole, pressing it home as strongly as possible. The nail will thus be firmly fastened in its place.

Labor Saved.

If mother has several small boys this plan is a good time saver. When making trousers insert loops of round white cord such as is used in corsets. Instead of working buttonholes in waistbands, and leave the facing wide enough to turn back; insert the loops and stitch down with the extra width. This serves for buttonholes and takes much less time.

Pitman-Stoneberg Wedding

Mr. Roy Pitman and Miss Lillian Stoneberg were united in holy matrimony Saturday, April 29, at 9:30 a. m., at the home of the officiating minister, Rev. Griffiths. They were attended by Ben Emmons and Miss Dorothy Stoneberg. The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pitman and is well known by all in this vicinity, having lived on the farm just north of town for the past eleven years. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stoneberg, and has lived near Chetek for several years. Her winsome manners and traits of character have won a host of friends.

Following the ceremony the bridal couple took the train for Washburn where they spent a few days visiting relatives. In a short time, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pitman, contemplate an automobile tour through the West extending a period of several months.

May the blessings of life be richly the portion of these young people as they enter upon this new relationship, is the desire of many friends. —Chetek Alert.

Familiar Remark.

Our second child had red hair, and whenever we took him out someone would remark about it. When the baby was two years old we were giving a dinner party and while waiting for the guests to arrive I was putting on the last touches and brushed the baby's hair. He looked up at me and said: "I pose de lady will say, 'Wher' did your baby det his red hair?'" —Exchange.

More Difficult.

"Most of us take things very seriously." "Yes," replied Miss Cayenne. "And it is largely due to indolence. In order to seem serious it is necessary only to manage your facial expression. But it takes a great deal of time, money and ingenuity to be truly frivolous." —Exchange.

Others' "Best Selves."

We all find a good deal of comfort in thinking of our best selves. If we thought very much about our worst selves we should be pretty miserable. Such thinking as we do about "worst selves" is usually about the worst selves of other people. And our consciousness of the worst selves of other people usually corresponds with our power to bring out those worst selves. —John D. Barry.

Resourceful Vocabulary.

"The river Parana," declares the prospectus of a real estate agent in Parana, Brazil, "is the most watery in the state, one of the most extended in the world, it is navigable until this state for ships of great profundity; it is also sufficiently shallow." This same cheerful chap it is who further asseverates that "the vegetable reign is excessively represented in resinous, oily and gummy plants."

SOMEONE TO MANDAMUS STATE

Live Stock Commission Is In a Peculiar Position at the Present Time

CANNOT GET THE MONEY

Wanted someone to mandamus the state of Illinois.

This is the position the state live stock commission finds itself in, following the refusal of State Treasurer Russell to cut any money from the $100,000 appropriation passed by the last general assembly to pay farmers outbreak of foot and mouth disease.

In the office of the live stock commission are claims amounting to approximately $30,000. Over $4,000 of this amount are for cattle slaughtered in the Christian county epidemic. The remainder is for veterinarians, disinfecting, property destroyed and guards.

The commission has issued warrants for the payment of these claims but the state officials have refused to honor them inasmuch as State Treasurer Russell's attorney, after a consultation with the attorney general, held the bill to be invalid.

Claimants consequently have no chance for payment until the next legislative acts of the supreme court holds the bill to be valid. Some officials of the live stock commission believe the supreme court would hold the bill valid if the question was submitted in the shape of a mandamus proceedings against the state treasurer asking that official be ordered to pay the claims.

The officials point out that if those holding claims against the state would get together in a meeting there would be little trouble in collecting a sufficient sum to take care of the cost of the litigation.

The officials declare the department is not in a position to mandamus other state officials but would be glad to furnish data to any person or group of persons who would file the mandamus. State Treasurer Russell himself would be glad to have a supreme court decision in the matter as he is merely holding up payment of the money to forestall any litigation which might arise after the money was paid out.

Base Ball Game Tomorrow

The ball game tomorrow at the graded school will be the Grayslake school team and Earl's white Sox.

Word From Headquarters.

"When, where and how will the war end?" "I don't know," replied the landlord of the Petunia tavern. "However, the young ladies and gents of the senior class of the village academy, several of whom are over sixteen years of age and have been outside of the county a time or two, are going to settle the entire question in a debate to-night. I understand, too, that while they are at it they will fix things so there will never be any more wars. So I shall be able to inform you in full tomorrow morning."

For the Bird Cage.

Attractive are new brackets of enameled iron which may be attached to the wall, near a window, to support the hanging bird cage. Some of these brackets are enameled bright yellow and a gay little yellow bird, supposedly a canary, perches on the end of the bracket arm. Bright blue brackets are provided with blue-birds, red enameled brackets with gay red-breasted robins.

Early Discouraged.

Mother—"No, Betty darling, I can't button your boots for you. Now you have a little sister you must learn to do things for yourself." Betty—"Shall I always have to do things for myself?" Mother—"Yes, darling. Betty—"Then I don't think I shall like life." —Punch.

U.S. ACCEPTS PLEDGE

PRESIDENT THREATENS BREAK IF BERLIN FAILS TO KEEP COMPACT.

MUST OBSERVE SEA POLICY

Wilson Accepts Promise of Lawful Submarine Warfare, But Rejects Conditions Demanding Intercession With Britain on Blockade.

Washington, May 10.—President Wilson in a formal note dispatched on Monday to Berlin has accepted as meeting his demand the announced change in Germany's submarine policy. Coupled with this acceptance is a veiled threat that diplomatic relations will be severed unless the new orders issued by the German admiralty are scrupulously observed.

The president further notifies Germany that this government will not for a moment entertain, much less discuss, the suggestion that respect by German naval authorities for American rights upon the high seas should "in any way or in the slightest degree" be made contingent upon the conduct of any other government affecting the rights of neutrals and non-combatants.

The president's reply absolutely commits the United States to a rupture of diplomatic relations should German commanders exceed the limitations of the recognized rules of international law admitted and declared by their government.

Following is the text of the reply of the United States to the latest German assurances regarding the conduct of submarine warfare:

The American ambassador in Berlin has been instructed by telegram to deliver the following note to the German minister of foreign affairs:

"The note of the German imperial government under date of May 4, 1916, has received careful consideration by the government of the United States. It is especially noted, as indicating the purpose of the imperial government as to the future, that it is prepared to do its utmost to confine the operations of the war for the rest of its duration to the fighting forces of the belligerents, and that it is determined to impose upon all its commanders at sea the limitations of the recognized rules of international law upon which the government of the United States has insisted. Throughout the months which have elapsed since the imperial government announced on February 4, 1915, its submarine policy, now happily abandoned, the government of the United States has been constantly guided and restrained by motives of friendship in its patient efforts to bring to an amicable settlement the critical questions arising from that policy. Accepting the imperial government's declaration of its abandonment of the policy which has so seriously menaced the good relations between the two countries, the government of the United States will rely upon a scrupulous execution henceforth of the now altered policy of the imperial government, such as will remove the principal danger to an interruption of the good relations existing between the United States and Germany.

"The government of the United States feels it necessary to state that it takes for granted that the imperial government does not intend to imply that the maintenance of its newly announced policy is in any way contingent upon the course or result of diplomatic negotiations between the government of the United States and any other belligerent government, notwithstanding the fact that certain passages in the imperial government's note of the 4th instant might appear to be susceptible of that construction. In order, however, to avoid any possible misunderstanding, the government of the United States notifies the imperial government that it cannot for a moment entertain, much less discuss, a suggestion that respect by German naval authorities for the rights of citizens of the United States upon the high seas should in any way or in the slightest degree be made contingent upon the conduct of any other government affecting the rights of neutrals and non-combatants. Responsibility in such matters is single, not joint; absolute, not relative."

MEXICANS RAID U.S.

THREE SOLDIERS AND BOY SHOT TO DEATH IN FIGHT AT GLEN SPRINGS, TEX.

BOQUILLAS ALSO ATTACKED

Entire Guard of Nine Troopers Either Killed or Wounded—Bandits Loot Stores in Town and Escape—Large Force Rushed to Scene.

El Paso, Tex., May 9.—The Columbus raid was repeated by Mexicans under Colonel Cervantes, a Villa commander, at Glen Springs, 85 miles south of Marathon, Tex., and ten miles north of the border, last Friday night. Three members of Troop A, Fourteenth cavalry, and one civilian boy are known to have been killed. Six members of Troop A, which constituted the remainder of the cavalry detachment, were wounded.

A number of American civilians are said to be missing from the district.

While the raid was being made at Glen Springs another band of Mexicans appeared at the store of J. Deemer, which is the source of supplies for a small mining settlement 25 miles to the north. The store was looted. Deemer and his clerk, L. McCoy, were made prisoners and carried back toward the border. They are both reported to have been killed.

Saturday night the raiders appeared again at Boquillas, on the American side of the border, 18 miles north of the Mexican town of Boquillas del Carmen. The seven employees of the International Mines company sought refuge in the mine tunnel and were defending themselves against great odds when last heard from.

The first report of the raids reached Maj. Gen. Frederick Funston at El Paso through the representatives of the International Mines company.

Three dead soldiers and one dead civilian boy had been brought to Marathon on a motor truck by two of the troopers, who had been wounded themselves. The soldiers killed were Privates Cohen Coloe and Rodgers.

General Funston, with the approval of Gen. Hugh L. Scott, issued orders for a new expedition to start from El Paso. The train got away at 6 p. m. It carried Troops A and B of the Eighth cavalry. This force will be joined en route by two troops of the Fourteenth cavalry under Col. Frederick W. Sibley and a machine gun platoon.

General Funston has issued orders that the Mexicans responsible for the raid must be captured or killed.

The raid on Glen Springs started at 11:30 Friday night. The attack was made both with firearms and burning torches. Sergeant Smith and his eight men fought from the windows of a wooden shack which they had intended to occupy during the rainy season. The five or six civilians in the place sought refuge with the soldiers and gave such aid as was possible in defending the shack.

The siege had lasted two hours before the Mexicans gained any advantage. During this time, however, they destroyed all tents and burned the two buildings in the settlement. In a rush attack with flaming torches they managed to set fire to the shack in which the soldiers were fighting. This forced the soldiers to quit the building, and three of them were killed in rushing from the burning structure. All members of the party were badly burned.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Compton fell dead from a Mexican bullet as he started to run with the others.

Under cover of smoke from the burning buildings, Sergeant Smith managed to load the bodies of the three dead troopers and the little Compton boy on a motor truck, which was placed in charge of two other troopers who had been badly wounded.

The truck was started for Marathon and brought out the first news of the raid.

With the dead and seriously wounded out of the way, Sergeant Smith again turned his attention to the bandits. He fought as best he could despite the fact he had only three men left, each of whom had been wounded more or less seriously.

At three o'clock he was compelled to retire to the refuge of the hills.

The last report received by General Funston tells that Sergeant Smith was badly burned. The entire party would have been killed on leaving the shack only for the smoke which obscured the view of the Mexicans.

The booty obtained at Deemer's store included $1,000 in cash.

The attack on Glen Springs, Boquillas and Deemers by raiding Mexicans was made under the leadership of Colonel Cervantes, a Villa sub-commander, according to advices received by General George Bell Jr., at Fort Bliss. Cervantes also is credited with leading the attack upon Columbus.

PRESIDENT WILSON AGREES TO PLANS WITH MEXICO.

General Scott Notified That Arrangement for Co-Operation in Villa Chae Is Satisfactory.

Washington, May 6.—President Wilson gave out this statement on the agreement between this country and Mexico.

"I have examined, with the secretary of war, the report made by Gen. Hugh L. Scott of the conference between him and General Obregon, secretary of war of the republic of Mexico.

"The report includes a tentative agreement covering the future operations of both the American and Mexican military forces and evidences cordial co-operation between the two governments in their common purpose.

"As this agreement is being submitted to the de facto government of Mexico, it would not be proper for me to permit its publication until that government has had an opportunity to examine and consider its provisions.

"The text of the proposed agreement will be given out immediately upon its acceptance by both governments. In general, I may say that it provides a basis of co-operation which promises to prevent misunderstanding and strengthens the cordial relations of the two republics."

Notification that the plan of co-operative action mapped out at the El Paso conference is acceptable to the Washington government was forwarded to General Scott by Secretary Baker.

Premier Asquith Announces Sir Casement Will Be Tried With the Utmost Expedition.

London, May 5.—Four heads of the "Republic of Ireland," including "Provisional President" Patrick H. Pearse, were tried by court-martial and executed on Wednesday. Their trials were swift and secret.

The three others executed were James Connolly, "commandant general of the Irish republican army," Thomas J. Clark and Thomas MacDonagh. All four were signatories of the republican proclamation issued at the outset of the uprising in Dublin.

Three other signers of the proclamation were convicted and sentenced three years' imprisonment.

Premier Asquith announced in parliament that Sir Roger Casement would be tried with the utmost expedition.

The trials and executions became known to the public through an announcement in the commons by Premier Asquith. At the same time there was also made public an official dispatch from Dublin telling of the program for the trial there of the lesser rebels captured. They will be tried by a field general court-martial under the defense of the realm act.

Pearse was one of the best known of the Irish intellectuals. His father was English, but his mother Irish. He was the headmaster of St. Edna's Secondary school, which he started for Irish boys to train them to seek the best in Celtic traditions. He was born in Dublin 35 years ago and was unmarried.

The most notable of the number after Pearse and Connolly is Thomas MacDonagh, who is called the poet of rebellion.

"Vast crowds, composed for the most part of women of the laboring classes, clamored for peace. The crowds were dispersed by the police and many persons were wounded at Chemnitz, Saxony."

A Geneva telegram to the Central News says:

"In riots in Berlin it is reported twenty-five persons were killed and 200 wounded."

38 TEUTONS FREED

BRITISH RELEASE MEN SEIZED FROM AMERICAN STEAMER CHINA ON FEB. 18.

HELD SOME PLACE IN ORIENT

England Liberates Germans Following Demand Made by U. S.—Wrongful Action to Be Admitted in This Particular Case.

London, May 8.—The British government has decided to release immediately the 38 Germans and Austrians who were taken from the American steamship China.

The action of the British authorities in ordering the release of the seized passengers on the China was not unexpected, as it was known that the last American demand declined to admit any form of legality in the reasons given by the foreign office for their detention.

The formal document in reply to the final American notes on the subject is not yet in readiness, but according to Lord Robert Cecil, minister of war, it will be carefully framed so as not to admit the general right of belligerents to enjoy the protection of a neutral flag.

In the present case, Great Britain admits itself in the wrong in regard to the facts outlined in the American remonstrance, but the reply will be couched in such terms that no general precedent is established, and British doctrines in regard to the seizure of individuals of hostile nationality on board neutral ships will be safeguarded.

The state department at Washington has contended that the facts in the case are similar to those of the famous Trent affair, but while it is not known what attitude the British reply will adopt toward this argument, Lord Robert Cecil gives it as his personal opinion that the two cases present wide differences.

The prisoners are held at some place in the Orient.

The Germans and Austrians were removed from the China by the British auxiliary cruiser Laurotic February 19, while the China was en route from Shanghai to San Francisco. The United States requested Great Britain to release these men and, being met with a declination, sent a second note.

The British authorities charged that the 38 men were concerned in a plot for a revolution in India.

THREE ZEPPELINS DESTROYED

Allies Bring Down Dirigible, Making a Total of Thirty-One Victims in War.

London, May 8.—Two more Zeppelins were destroyed on Friday by allied gun fire, making three of the German dirigibles destroyed within three days and a total of 31 officially reported wrecked since the start of the war.

Of the two latest victims one was brought down by one of the British light cruiser squadrons off the Schleswig coast and the other was brought down after a raid on Saloniki, only one of its crew of 30 escaping.

The Zeppelin L-20 was blown ashore on the Norwegian coast after returning from a raid on the east coast of England and Scotland. When the disabled balloon began to be carried away by a strong wind the Norwegian military authorities at Stavanger blew up the air vessel. The Zeppelin exploded with great detonation and was burned.

When Housework Drags

Keeping house is hard enough when well. The woman who has a bad back, blue, nervous spells, and dizzy headaches, has a hard lot, for the family tasks never let up. Probably it's the result of kidney trouble and not the much-feared "woman's weakness." Strengthen the kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. They are as harmless as they are effective and may be used for children with weak kidneys, too.

An Illinois Case

Mrs. Geo. A. Wilson, 705 Washington St., Waukegan, Ill., says: "My back ached for a long time and the kidney secretions passed too freely. I was nervous and dizzy and I had feverish spells, followed by chills. One box of Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and I have never had any sign of kidney trouble since."

A young convict came singing around the corner of the big, sunny yard, and Judge Briles had just made himself comfortable in an easy chair on the big house porch.

"Beatin' up a policeman."

"That is a serious offense. Now aren't you glad you have thought better of it and intend to turn about?"

"Yes, suh."

GLASS OF WATER Upset Her.

People who don't know about food should never be allowed to feed persons with weak stomachs.

Sometime ago a young woman who lives in Me. had an attack of scarlet fever, and when convalescing was permitted to eat anything she wanted. Indiscriminate feeding soon put her back in bed with severe stomach and kidney trouble.

"There I stayed," she says, "three months, with my stomach in such condition that I could take only a few teaspoonfuls of milk or beef juice at a time. Finally Grape-Nuts was brought to my attention and I asked my doctor if I might eat it. He said, 'yes,' and I commenced at once.

"The food did me good from the start and I was soon out of bed and recovered from the stomach trouble. I have gained ten pounds and am able to do all household duties, some days sitting down only long enough to eat my meals. I can eat anything that one ought to eat, but I still continue to eat Grape-Nuts at breakfast and supper and like it better every day.

"Considering that I could stand only a short time, and that a glass of water seemed 'so heavy,' I am fully satisfied that Grape-Nuts has been everything to me and that my return to health is due to it.

"I have told several friends having nervous or stomach trouble, why Grape-Nuts did for me and in every case they speak highly of the food.

SUBLIME COURAGE AS IT IS SEEN IN THE HOSPITALS BEHIND VERDUN

Unconquerable Spirit of the French Soldier Is Manifested at Receiving Stations, Where Stir of Battle and Incentive to Brave Deeds Are Lacking—Day With Wounded Described in Graphic Letter From Noted Writer.

Paris.—The unconquerable spirit of the French soldier, as manifested in the field hospital to which the American ambulance men are hurrying the seriously wounded from the relief stations in the immediate rear of the fighting lines at Verdun, is told in graphic fashion by a noted French writer, A. Vollis, as a result of a trip which he was permitted to make in the fifth week of the great battle.

"On the previous day," he writes, "the great guns had been roaring unceasingly, with a hoarse, thunderous noise and with formidable explosions of fury which made the windows rattle and caused the last of the snow to fall from the roofs. On this morning the silence is almost complete.

"It is a sign that the infantry is attacking," says the sergeant in charge of supplies, who is something of a strategist. "We are soon going to be busy."

"Very soon the dull roll of the ambulances is heard. It can be recognized among the bounding and tearing noises of the ordinary wagons.

"The bell rings three times, which means that there are three wounded men, and the litters are hurriedly brought out into the yard.

"The stretcher is always the cause of a special touch of emotion. Will they be able to save the wounded man? Is it life or is it death?

Glad to Be Alive.

"In the case of the two first comers there is nothing serious to fear. They are two sublieutenants, two boys, and they have become acquainted on the way. Although their looks are still full of astonished stupefaction, they try to laugh, happy at having fought well and at being alive, even merely alive, although a thigh has been broken and a lung pierced. One of them has his helmet tightly pressed on his breast.

"No, don't take it away; don't take it away," he pleads. "I shall take it to bed with me; it is my friend, my savior, and he points to an enormous slash in the blue steel. 'To think that I came off so easy! With only a damaged leg!'

"The other smiles gently as he breathes heavily. He is blond, with a light down on his cheeks and his eyes are blue, and his whole appearance boyish.

"Lieutenant," says the attendant who is emptying his pockets, 'you have a military card and letters which are not in your name.'

"The young man raises his eyebrows.

"Oh, yes, I remember," he says suddenly. "I had just been hit, and they placed me against the bank; I was nearly frozen and my teeth were chattering. In the neighborhood a company was about to start to the attack. Then one of the soldiers, an old fellow with a big mustache and kindly eyes, leaned over me and said, 'You are cold, poor boy.' He took off his coat and threw it over me, and then I saw him running in his shirt-sleeves to catch up with the others."

"Here is a photograph of his wife and children," said the attendant, "and also his purse."

"It was a worn leather purse, with a gold piece, a few cents, and three cigarettes in it, the entire fortune of the soldier."

"What a good fellow," sighs the little lieutenant. "I don't know him and it would not be easy to find him now; it will be a case for the special bureau."

"A major and a captain," announces an ambulance driver.

The Dying Major.

"The major's gray head shakes with the movement of the carriers. His eyelids are like dark cavities in a face frightfully discolored. His purple lips continuously murmur words in a spasmodic and touching way: 'Quick—Telephone—They are holding—More munitions—Ah, the fine boys!—They have got there—Fin!'"

"Someone raises the covering, and from the neck to the feet the great body of the major is revealed wound up in reddened bandages, like a mummy in rusted strips. At the first relief post they had not spared their pains in dressing his wounds.

"Are you suffering, major?" he is asked.

"His eyelids slowly uncover the already dimmed pupils. His distant look turns to the fresh face of the attendant and to the white cap of the nurse, and then, with a peculiar accent of gentleness and exhaustion, he says: 'No, my boy; no, my little girl!'

"His eyelids drop suddenly, closed forever.

"Madame, an attendant says to the chief nurse, 'please tell the captain that he is not reasonable. He wants to get into bed by himself, and he has a fragment of shell in his side.'

"The captain is a young officer of chassours, slender, vigorous, with his cap on his ear. Seated on the stretcher, he is making efforts to rise, and a little grimace twists his mouth.

"Madame," he says, "I present my compliments. I don't want to be carried. I am not a little girl. What would my chassours say? Ah, madame, the fine boys, the fine boys! If you had seen them climb out of the trenches to attack the flood of Germans, and they felt; I saw them fall;

my sergeants, my lieutenants, my orderly—and he was such a good boy; but the others kept on running forward. It was magnificent. And then this wretched piece of shell caught me in the ribs, and how those boys looked after me. They carried me in an overcoat, and when a shell exploded they lay down on me, they actually covered me with their bodies. And to think that I left them out there all alone, my chassours, my boys!"

"My boys," sounded strange from so young an officer.

"Yes, madame, I promise you I am going to be calm. I have now plenty of time. What, help me to undress? Ah, no, thanks, not that."

"Well," said the nurse with a sigh, "that means 104 degrees of fever this evening."

"Gradually the beds are filled. Each little room has its share of suffering—of silent suffering. The seriously wounded do not complain much.

"The chief surgeon and his assistants come along. He has just left the operating room; his linen coat is stained with blood and he holds his hands, covered with rubber gloves, high in the air. Under his white cap his face, crossed by a thin mustache, appears thin and hollow, with the strained, sharp expression evoked by a day of work at high pressure.

"He stops before each bed, consults the chart, makes a brief examination and pronounces a few brief words. No time to lose, for there will be operations all night long.

The Battle With Death.

"Send this one to the operating room at once. Yes, captain; it will be a quick affair. Send that one next. Give him 500 centilitres of serum in the meantime. Give that other one camphorated oil, maximum dose."

"It is the bitter, determined struggle against death, which is eagerly on the watch.

"There is a more lengthy delay at the bed of a lieutenant who has just been brought in. His stiff hair is curly and his face is like a sculpture in clear bronze. His eyes are of a bright, clear color and they look sharply at the faces that bend over him.

"All right," says the surgeon at last, in a gentle voice. His eyes wandered to the bed table and he observed an open letter in a graceful feminine handwriting, on which the three words, 'I love you!' stand out sharply. He covered up the wounded officer and tucked in the covering around him quite tenderly.

"We shall not touch you tonight," he adds. "You are not suffering too much? Good, you will have a sedative. Rest well and good-night."

"As the surgeon leaves the room he makes a gesture across his abdomen from one side to the other and whispers: 'He is lost; cut right across. He has no pulse and he will not live till morning. And what a magnificent boy; such courage and such a brave look. It's dreadful to feel that one can do nothing.'

Huntington Park, Cal.—The queerest piece of mail matter in local post-office history arrived recently addressed to Dr. Sigmund Frey, head of the Jewish Orphans' home. A coconut from Hawaii was delivered to him. The nut was still within its original fibrous covering and the address had been burned into the smooth outer surface with a burning needle. Sixty cents' worth of stamps were necessary for postage, stuck on the nut itself.

curly hair wishes to speak to you, says an attendant. The nurse returns to the room on the tips of her toes.

"Madame," the lieutenant says calmly, "I ask for you because I am lost."

The Great Sacrifice.

"You lost! Why talk such foolishness?"

"Thanks, madame, but it is useless to deceive me. I am lost; I feel it, and I know it. Oh, I am not complaining; so many of my comrades are gone. It was my turn; that's all. Besides, I have the immense joy of knowing that I die for something. They will not get to Verdun and they are wearing out. Only (and he turns to the darkening window), only I would have liked to see the sun again. Madame, I have some letters here and a photograph. Will you do me the favor to burn them?"

"The bronzed hand reaches out and seizes the papers on the table and presses them over his breast, which rises in a sigh. For a brief moment his fingers tremble and his mouth contracts. Then he holds out the papers.

"Take them. Thanks."

"He is silent. His sacrifice has been consummated. Tears fall from the nurse's eyes on her white bodice and on the love letters, which she presses tight.

"My mother," begins the lieutenant again.

"Do you wish to dictate a letter for her?"

"There is a pause. 'No; I am not strong enough. You will tell her. You will know best how to tell her.'

"His eyes close, and then all at once they open again.

"My notebook. All my war life is inscribed in it, day by day. I have entered the date of my wound. When all is over, will you please add the day and the hour."

"The nurse nods her head affirmatively.

"Thanks once more, madame; you are kind. You must not cry. Go back to the others, who need you more. Good-night, madame."

"The courage which has not as stimulus the fever and intoxication of battle, the call of duty or the example of a superior, courage naked and sublime, is the courage on the hospital bed.

Reminiscences of the Day.

"The wounded continued to arrive. There are hardly any beds unoccupied. Some young officers who can be moved—broken arms, bullet in the shoulder and general wounds—will be taken to the rear in the evening. They are seated around a fire in their muddy uniforms, which are torn and stained with blood, and they chat in low tones, for there are three comrades in bed near them. They are talking of the recent fighting and their movements are feverish and their eyes shine.

"How funny you looked, old man," says one to another, "as you ran forward, with your hair in the wind and a bagful of grenades on your stomach! Like an opossum."

"Did you see Lieutenant X—? After the first attack he waved his yellow gloves and said in that mincing voice of his: 'Is not this shelling ridiculous? Those poor Boches have no sense of art.'"

"All the same, with his gloves and his funny voice, X— is more reckless than all of us together."

"Oh, for reckless bravery!"

"Another stretcher shakes the stairs. At the top there is a pause. Then a gentle voice is heard:

"Madame, it would be awfully good of you if you could find a little eau de cologne for me. A few drops would do. I am really ashamed to be brought into your presence in such a dreadfully unclean condition."

"The tones are soft and clear and just a trifle affected.

No Sympathy Desired.

"The three officers rise and dash forward.

"Why, it is X—!"

"Here I am," he replied. "A little late, but I was occupied."

"Where are you wounded?"

"The young man, very pale, lifts the covering and raises with an effort the stump of an arm.

"You have lost an arm? Already amputated!"

"Yes, it was a very ugly bruised mess and disgusted me, so we had it off."

"Poor old chap!"

"Nonsense. With a nice little artificial hand with a glove over it, no one will tell the difference. Besides, it's cleaner for some purposes. My fellows used to make fun of my gloves. I was just practicing."

"X—, you are wonderful. And how were things going when you left the front?"

"Fine, marvelously. The Boches were falling like topknots. And not an inch did they gain, my boy, not a single inch."

Church Services

St. Ignatius' Episcopal Church

EVERETT CARR, PASTOR

The Rev. L. C. Lewis, B. D., M. A., professor of Ecclesiastical History and Liturgies in the Western Theological Seminary, Chicago, will conduct the services next Sunday, May 14th, in St. Ignatius' Episcopal church, at 11 o'clock, the Sacrament of Baptism will be administered and there will also be a celebration of Holy Communion. Father Lewis will preach at this service.

Father Lewis is known as one of the most powerful preachers in the Diocese of Chicago. He is in great demand throughout the city and Antioch is unusually fortunate in having him for a Sunday service. It is expected that a large congregation will hear him. Those who are to receive Baptism are requested to be in the church by 10:45 o'clock, as it is proposed to start the service at 11 o'clock. It is hoped that every confirmed person in the community will be present to make his or her communion at this service.

The regular confirmation instruction which was to have been given next Sunday has been postponed until the following Sunday, May 21st. The subject at that time will be "The Sacraments".

8:00 p. m.—Evening service. The evening sermon by the pastor will be in keeping with the sentiment.

Sunday, being "Mother's Day", will be observed with appropriate services. Our mothers have suffered for us, and have striven that we might succeed. They have sough, no matter how much or how little of this world's goods they had, to make our surroundings pleasant and enjoyable, to make our conditions the best so that we might not be handicapped in life's battles. Think of the mothers today, who are working under adverse circumstances, that they might keep their children together and give them a start in life. Let us honor her and help others honor their mother by attending some one of the churches in our midst in honoring our mothers.

A small fire in the woodshed at the Arthur VanPatten home was the means of calling out the fire department, Monday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock. A picked team of local ball players went to Silverlake Sunday and played a fair game of baseball with the Silverlake boys and come home with a very small score, they are excused, it being their first game. The score was 12-3 in favor of Silverlake.

A fire which came very close to consuming the residence of Jas. Wilton broke out about five minutes before noon today, and only for the prompt response of the fire department the building would have been completely destroyed. The fire which originated from a defective chimney fanned by the heavy wind was merrily blazing from the roof when discovered. As soon as the alarm sounded the chemical was rushed to the place and really had the fire under control from the start. Very little water was needed to extinguish it. The firemen deserve a considerable amount of credit for their good work which shows a thorough organization. Had they not been on the job it would have been impossible to save the house, as the wind was blowing a perfect gale at the time.

EMPIRE
Mechanical Milker

One man, using only one double unit, can milk 20 to 30 cows per hour, besides doing the stripping and carrying the milk. Single Units, each of which will milk 10 to 15 cows per hour, can be had if preferred. One man can operate two or three single units. Helpers and old cows both like the EMPIRE Milker and take to it quickly. The frequent increase in milk flow proves that. The illustration shows you the Double Unit outfit in actual operation, except for the small pump and tank which supply the vacuum. Any suitable power will drive the pump.

The HOME BEAUTIFUL

Flowers and Shrubs—
Their Care and Cultivation

Effective Planting Makes for Beauty.

HOME GROUNDS BEAUTIFUL

By BETTY PAKE.

Look out for dahlias, gladioli and other rank-growing plants that are likely to be blown down by the wind and stake them.

Pick the pansies and nasturtiums every day if you want to have plenty of bloom.

When the lilacs have finished blooming all the seed clusters should be cut away.

It is fatal to some plants to fertilize them with rich manures when the ground is very dry.

Never allow roses to remain on the bush until the petals fall.

If the seed is allowed to develop on the lilac it generally has few flowers except every other year.

The best way to kill weeds is to pull them up by hand. Do not allow them to get ahead of you.

Look out for the red bug and other enemies of the rose.

An excellent spray for the rose bushes is made of one-half pound of laundry soap melted in hot water to which is added one cupful of kerosene. When this comes to a boil, use about one part to fifteen parts of water.

Keep the moisture in your soil around your plants by applying road dust about the roots during the hot and droughty weather.

Lawn clippings make an excellent mulch for bushes, shrubs and large plants.

Tea roses like to have the soil about their roots cool and moist. Grass clippings are good for that purpose. Spread the grass over the bed to a depth of two or three inches. As soon as it withers work it into the soil when as it decays it will act as a fertilizer. Apply fresh clippings.

HELPS IN FLOWER GROWING

Don't drain the soil before the moisture of winter and spring has drained from it, so that it will pulverize perfectly. If the soil drops from the spade in moist, soggy lumps, be sure it is not ready to work.

As the frost leaves the soil dig in the manure-mulch placed last fall about the shrubs, roses and hardy perennials. If there be no winter mulch about such plants, be sure to apply some kind of fertilizer to them.

A good coat of bone meal in the absence of well-rotted manure will serve. Scatter it about the base of the plants after the soil is stirred, and let the rain drive it to the roots.

Dig a strip 15 or 18 inches wide across the bed or border and then rake it, beginning at the bottom of the trench and fling the soil from the subsoil to the top. Continue this throughout the length of the bed, and then you will have worked the soil perfectly.

By planting everything in long rows across the entire length of the garden, planting all the things that require a whole season to mature on one side, all the second crop vegetables will be in a compact plot on the other side of the garden plot.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP

How Speaker Clark Attended a G. O. P. Dinner

WASHINGTON.—Through a comedy of errors, Champ Clark, speaker of the house, recently became one of the guests of honor at a dinner given by Representative B. M. Chipperfield of Illinois to his veteran colleague, "Uncle Joe" Cannon. It was intended to be strictly a Republican affair, and the 25 guests, other than Mr. Clark, were all members of that party.

Mr. Clark, an unexpected, but nevertheless welcome, guest, appeared suddenly at the dinner. He had a good time, and so did the others. How he became a part of the gathering, as told by himself, proved to be one of the most amusing after-dinner speeches he ever told.

It appears that Speaker Clark and Mr. Chipperfield are members of the same college fraternity—the Phi Kappa Psi—and were to be guests at a dinner given by the members of that organization in Washington. Mr. Clark suddenly recalled the dinner, and, having misplaced his engagement book, he thought that the dinner was that evening. Summoning his chauffeur, he hastily drove to Rauscher's, dismissed his car, and walked up to the dining-room floor. The only function he could discover was a ball, at which members of congress were conspicuous by their absence.

Then the speaker hastened to the Willard, supposing that the dinner must be there. But no, it wasn't. Mr. Clark then returned home to renew the search for his engagement book. Here he told his dilemma to Bennett, his son and parliamentary clerk of the house.

"That's easy," said Bennett. "That dinner is wherever Jim Mann is. Why not call up Mrs. Mann. She ought to know where her husband is."

Mrs. Mann did know. Mr. Mann was at dinner at the Phi Kappa Psi banquet when "the dinner" was being given. The clerk said it was on the fourth floor, and without a doubt the speaker bent his steps thither.

The first sign of misgiving penetrated his mind as Mr. Clark caught a glimpse of the diners through the door, which stood partially open. He began to think he had made some egregious blunder and would have pulled back, when at that moment Mr. Chipperfield, catching sight of him, shouted his name and every Republican present joined in bringing in the speaker.

Vice President's Stories Worry Senate Chaplain

VICE PRESIDENT MARSHALL has a habit of telling a funny story at the eleventh hour. In fact, he usually waits until the eleventh hour and about fifty-five minutes. The consequence is that when he enters the senate chamber to convene that body of solemn tellers, he is apt to have a half-suppressed little smile on his face, and Rev. Forest J. Prettyman, the senate chaplain, has even more difficulty in maintaining the serious countenance of a man about to lead in prayer.

Here is the way the thing works out: Along about 11:30 Marshall shifts from his office in the senate office building to his room in the capitol. He lights a cigar and smokes as he receives any callers that drop in. A few minutes before the noon hour the callers thin out, and the chaplain comes to be in readiness to accompany the vice president into the senate chamber. Now, for some unaccountable reason, the presence of the chaplain makes Marshall think of a funny story. At about five minutes prior to the hour of opening the senate he starts to tell this story with calm deliberation.

The golden moments speed on their way, and by the time Marshall has the basic part of his story outlined it lacks only two minutes or less until twelve o'clock. All hands begin to grow nervous, and the sergeant at arms comes to the door, watch in hand, to make certain that the vice president is going to reach his seat in due season. It would not do at all to have the senate open a minute late.

Marshall gets up from his desk and proceeds across the corridor, still working toward the point of his story, and by a burst of speed gets to the climax just as he pushes open the door into the senate chamber. Chaplain Prettyman has his choice then of not laughing at the story, which would be impolite on his part, or of laughing and then pulling his face back into shape ready to offer prayer while walking the few steps from the door to the rostrum.

"I think," said Prettyman one morning after a particularly amusing little yarn by Marshall, "that after this I'll keep out of your way and just study the weather map out in the next room until time to go in."

Mint and Treasury Relics Put on Exhibition

VARIOUS activities of the United States mint and of the office of the treasurer of the United States are illustrated in an exhibit of twelve cases recently set up in the north corridor of the treasury building. The display represents the most interesting part of the exhibit of the treasury department shown at the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco.

Included in the cases are presidential medals struck off by the mint; coins, planchets and bars of gold, indicating stages of the processes of making gold money; keys of the safes and vaults of the treasury used from 1774 to the day of the advent of safe combination and time locks; mutilated currency redeemed, and a number of warrants for big payments made out of the treasury or on treasury order.

The warrant for the largest amount is for $140,000,000 on account of the public debt. Others are for $40,000,000 in payment for the Panama canal, $10,000,000 for the Canal zone, $20,000,000 for the Philippines and $200,000 paying General Lafayette for his military services to the colonies during the Revolutionary war. With the warrants is a transfer order directing the transfer of $60,000,000 from the Denver mint to the subtreasury in New York city.

Another interesting feature of the display is the mutilated bills that through expert examination have been identified and redeemed.

"Spooning" All Right in Parks of Washington

"SPOONING," while not recognized by that generic term, is permitted in the parks of Washington just as it is in Pittsburgh, where the chief of police confesses he does not know what "spooning" is, and intends fostering it. Col. W. W. Harts, superintendent of buildings and grounds, when informed that Pittsburgh's chief of police had extended a general invitation to all lovers to "spoon" in the Smoky City parks, said:

"We do not know what 'spooning' is here, but the parks of Washington are open to lovers, sweethearts, beaux, and belles, and others under the spell of the tender emotion."

"There is no regulation prohibiting lovemaking in Washington parks. These parks are for the beautification of the city and the recreation and enjoyment of its inhabitants. Benches laden with lovers cannot but contribute to the beautification plan, and what more human and delightful recreation is there to be found than lovemaking?"

Realizing that "in the spring the young man's fancy lightly turns," Colonel Harts has installed 1,000 additional benches in the parks of Washington. As adjutant to General Cupid, he believes he has done his full duty. There are no restrictions on the use of the national capital's parks by lovers, provided, says Colonel Harts, "their recreation and happiness does not interfere with the enjoyment of the parks by others."

Cabaret.
"Will you have some capers with your intuition, sir?" asked the waiter.
"I don't mind if I do," said the guest.

If you Suffer from Backache, Lumbago, Kidneys or Rheumatism, Take Hot Water and "ANURIC"

American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead, when your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night, when you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism, when the weather is bad, get from your druggist—"ANURIC." Because of uric acid in overabundance in the system, backache, pains here and there, rheumatism, gout, gravel, neuralgia and sciatica result. It was Dr. Pierce who discovered a new agent, called "Anuric," which throws out and eradicates this uric acid from the system. Dr. Pierce believes "Anuric" to be 37 times more potent than Uva, and consequently you need no longer fear muscular or articular rheumatism or gout, or many other diseases which are dependent on an accumulation of uric acid within the body. Send Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., 10c for trial package or $1.00 for full treatment.

"Anuric."

Dr. Pierce's reputation is back of this medicine and you know that his "Pleasant Pellets" for the liver and his "Favorite Prescription" for the kidneys of women have had a splendid reputation for the past 50 years. Adv.

Bumper Grain Crops

Good Markets—High Prices
Prizes Awarded to Western Canada for Wheat, Oats, Barley, Alfalfa and Grasses

The winnings of Western Canada at the Soil Products Exposition at Denver were easily made. The list comprised Wheat, Oats, Barley and Grasses, the most important being the prizes for Wheat and Oats and sweep stake on Alfalfa.

No less important than the splendid quality of Western Canada's wheat and other grains, is the excellence of the cattle fed and fattened on the grasses of that country. A recent shipment of cattle to Chicago topped the market in that city for quality and price.

Western Canada produced in 1915 one-third as much wheat as all of the United States, or over 300,000,000 bushels.

Canada in proportion to population has a greater exportable surplus of wheat this year than any country in the world, and at present prices you can figure out the revenue for the producer. In Western Canada you will find good markets, splendid schools, exceptional social conditions, perfect climate and other great attractions. There is no war tax on land and no conscription.

Send for illustrated pamphlet and ask for reduced railway rates, information as to best locations, etc. Address Superintendent Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or

Modern Traffic Demands Elastic Roads

Rome has a great reputation as a road builder. Her roads consisted of three courses of stone several feet in thickness. Even with cheap or even slave labor Roman roads must have cost from $50,000 to $200,000 a mile. Though they lasted for a great many years, we should not want Roman roads now-a-days at any price. They were rough and permitted only slow movement of traffic. The demand now is for an elastic

A Poor Kind of Economy.
Natural asphalt cost a little more than asphalt manufactured from oil, but the difference is only a few cents per yard. The labor, stone and other construction costs are the same, and it is evidently a poor kind of economy to "save" a few cents on the cost of the asphalt when by so doing the whole investment may be wasted. According to government authorities, half the money spent in road building is thrown away on experiments and faulty construction. There is no excuse for the continuance of this waste, for there is now enough experience to guide any community in selecting a type of construction that will give good service and in choosing materials that will stand the wear and tear of traffic. Starting with these, adding good drainage and good workmanship, and there is no reason why good roads cannot now be had at reasonable first cost and moderate upkeep.

or malleable road surface which is adapted to horse-drawn as well as fast-moving motor traffic. This is the factor mainly responsible for the constant increase in asphalt macadam or asphaltic concrete.

In roads of this type, as in plain waterbound macadam, the stone is the wear-resisting portion of the surface. The purpose of the asphalt is to cement the stone together into a malleable mass—not to make an unyielding slab, as of cement concrete, but a road crust that will be dustless, waterproof and provide easy traction for both horse-drawn and motor vehicles.

Life of Road Depends on Asphalt

It is easily seen that the life of the road will depend upon the life of the asphalt. If the asphalt cement loses its hold on the stone it begins to ravel out, holes develop, water stands in them, and the road is doomed.

The difference in asphalts mainly appears in the length of time they retain their full cementing power. Artificial or manufactured asphalts and the natural asphalts all analyze very much alike in the laboratory. The difference between them appears after they are put into a road or street.

The natural asphalts have been exposed to the elements for centuries and so are not affected by heat, cold and water. The manufactured asphalts are for the first time exposed to Nature's destructive influences when they are put into a road and for this reason quickly lose the qualities that they show under laboratory analysis.
